LIBRARY LIST NO. 100

COMPILED BY JESSE OSTROFF

P R E F A C E

The 616 titles in this list were selected from the serial publications in the collection of the National Agricultural Library (NAL), covering subjects dealing with dairy livestock production and dairy food technology. In choosing them, the emphasis has been placed on "applied" aspects of the dairy industry. The compiler recognizes that dairy research depends on such basic sciences as animal physiology, genetics, embryology, biochemistry, etc.; however, since research in such a broad and inclusive field as dairy science involves searching the literature of practically all the basic biological sciences as well as the major interdisciplinary journals, the entries in this work are confined to those publications that are devoted mainly to dairy livestock and dairy products. Coverage of these aforementioned basic science serials, along with the major interdisciplinary journals, would require the inclusion of a large proportion of the approximately 19,000 serial titles currently received by NAL -- a task substantially accomplished by the recently published "Serials Currently Received by the National Agricultural Library 1975." As to the currency of this list of dairy publications, it includes those serials received by NAL as of August 31, 1975.

The format of this compilation is a function of the computer assisted technique used in searching the computer-tape store of NAL serial records. It utilizes a KWOC (Keyword Out of Context) program whereby each substantive word in each title is printed on the left margin of the page in alphabetical order followed by the full title of the entry plus the library call number. By this means, each title appears as many times as there are substantive words within it. This is a means of avoiding the publication of a lengthy index requiring costly manual arrangement of terms and their referents. It also permits the searcher to look for a title by a number of terms without requiring him to determine the precise name of the document. Thus, a KWOC format is a type of self-contained subject (and often corporate-author) index to the serials listed in the text.

Acknowledgment is gratefully made to Mr. John Forbes for his lexicographic skills, to Ms. Mary Mahler, Mr. Carl Cantrell, and Ms. Nancy Ayer in providing the computer programming and searching capability, and to Mr. Jerome Rafats in manually searching for those items which could not be searched with the assistance of a computer. Last, but not least, this effort was launched and sustained by Dr. N. P. Ralston of the USDA Extension Service whose interest in improving the communication between dairy experts at all levels of our national economy inspired the staff at NAL to provide this list of the titles.
